TCHC provides the following further additional information in response to Question #15:

TCHC is now limiting proponents from seeking direct input from the community during the short time remaining before the RFP submission deadline. This prevents both the community from being overwhelmed by multiple engagement activities and confusion with TCHC's own RFP engagement activities underway.

As outlined in TCHC's response to question #15, TCHC will conduct coordinated, broad based community engagement to address proponents' and the community's desire for engagement and exchange of information. This will provide proponents with a uniform opportunity for engagement and receipt of the same information from the community to use to inform their RFP responses, while minimizing the impacts noted above on the community and TCHC's own engagement activities.

Information regarding proponent conduct requirements more generally during the RFP process can be found in section 7.4 of the main RFP Document as well as section 9 of Submission Form A – Proponent Acknowledgements.

All other terms and conditions remain the same.
