Policy Statement

Diversity is an important value of the organization, where each employee is respected and valued for their differences. Toronto Community Housing is committed to enhancing workplace diversity and fostering a workplace that is representative of the resident population it serves. A diverse workplace benefits employees by allowing them to feel valued for their differences by the organization and creating opportunities for advancement. The organization is committed to identifying and removing barriers for diverse employees in recruitment, advancement and retention. Historically, certain groups of people experience barriers to employment and are underrepresented in the workforce. Underrepresented These groups include persons with disabilities, racialized minorities, women, Aboriginal people, Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Queer communities, and persons caring for elder and child dependents. The selection of these groups does not preclude the possibility of addressing systemic discrimination for other underrepresented groups.
Toronto Community Housing protects all employees from discrimination and harassment under the Code and TCHC’s Human Rights, Harassment and Fair Access Policy. Toronto Community Housing will strive to ensure diversity is represented in all areas of the organization including policies, procedures and practices.

Definitions

Prohibited Grounds: The Code prohibits discrimination in employment on the following grounds: citizenship, race, place of origin, ethnic origin, colour, ancestry, disability, age, creed, sex / pregnancy, gender identity, gender expression, family status, marital status, sexual orientation, and record of offences.

Diversity: is any dimension that can be used to differentiate groups and people from one another. It means respect for and appreciation of differences on the basis of a prohibited ground. Diversity is about the individual employee, it is about the variety of unique dimensions, qualities, and characteristics we all possess.

Inclusion: Inclusion is about the collective culture in the workplace. It is about creating a culture that strives for equity and embraces, respects, and values differences.

Diversity and Inclusion: When these two terms are combined, it adds another dimension to the terms. Diversity and Inclusion is about capturing the uniqueness of the individual, creating an environment that values and respects individuals for their talents, skills and abilities to benefit the collective culture in the workplace.

Access: People from diverse groups gaining equal opportunity to the use of goods, services, programs, facilities, public spaces and participation in social, economic, cultural and political life.

Equity: is not limited to equal access to opportunities but equal benefits as well. It requires the removal of systemic barriers and the accommodation of differences so that individuals can benefit equally.

Barriers: A barrier means anything that prevents a person with a disability from fully participating because of his or her disability. Generally barriers fall into three areas: attitudinal/behavioural, procedural, and physical. Barriers that are usually hidden in the rules, procedures, policies and operations of organizations that limit the access to goods, services, programs, facilities, and economic, social and cultural participation of people from diverse groups. Barriers prevent underrepresented groups from maximizing their contribution to the workplace.

Special Programs: The Code recognizes the importance of addressing historical disadvantages by protecting special programs to help marginalized groups. Under Section 14 of the Code it is not discrimination to put in place a program if it designed to relieve hardship or economic disadvantage, help disadvantaged people or groups to achieve or try to achieve equal opportunity or help eliminate discrimination. Provided the program or initiative meets the requirements of the Code and the Ontario Human Rights Commission, special programs may include Aboriginal employment strategy, statistical goals for priority groups, and continuous training initiatives.
Discrimination: is any practice or behaviour which, whether intentional or not, treats people unequally or makes a distinction based on a prohibited ground (e.g. disability, sex, race, and sexual orientation) resulting in a disadvantage, an obligation, or a burden that other individuals or groups do not have. A decision to deny a benefit that relies on any of these grounds, unrelated to a person's abilities, is prohibited under the Code. Discrimination may result from the effect of applying general rules to everyone.

Systemic Discrimination: patterns of policies, practices, and procedures that are part of the structures of an organization, and which create or perpetuate discrimination.

The Duty to Accommodate: is an individualized process designed to improve equality and eliminate disadvantages experienced by individuals or groups related to a prohibited ground, to the point of undue hardship. Accommodation includes appropriate steps designed to the special needs of individuals and groups protected by the Human Rights Code. Accommodation is determined in consultation with the person requesting the accommodation.

Harassment: is a course of comment(s) or conduct about a prohibited ground that a person knows or ought to know would be unwelcome. Harassment may result from one incident or a series of incidents.
