Be ready when it matters most

Emergency Preparedness: be ready for anything

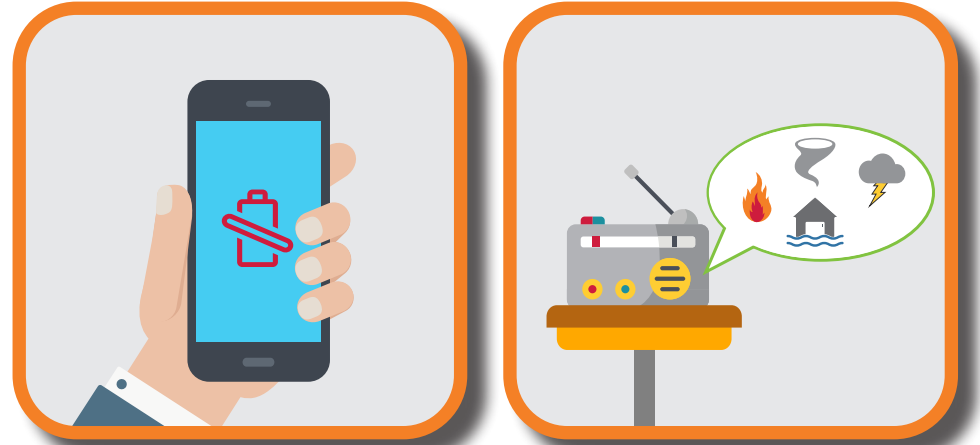

An emergency can happen at any time and any place. Are you prepared?

Be prepared

It may take up to three days for your family to get help. You should keep enough supplies on hand to last until then.

Tune in

A battery-powered radio can help you get emergency information when your power and internet are not working.

Stock up

Your emergency water supply (for drinking, cooking and cleaning) should be 12 litres for each household member (four litres per day multiplied by three days). Be prepared to be self-sufficient for up to 72 hours during a major emergency.
