

How to show proof of household income and assets guide

Instructions: This guide shows the most common sources of income and assets. There may be other sources of income that are not listed. Use this guide to make sure that you attach the right documents as proof of your income and assets. If the income type listed doesn't apply to your household, skip to the next section.

Note: You must report all of your household income and assets, even if they are not shown in this guide. Where further information or clarification is needed, we may also require additional documents that are not listed below.

These materials are available in an alternate format upon request.

1. Frequently asked questions (FAQ)

a. Can I just provide my Notice of Assessment to calculate rent-geared-to-income (RGI) rent?

- ✓ Most household members must provide current income verification documents as outlined in the sections below. However, if a member of the household whose only income is from a fixed pension and/or long term disability or has fluctuating income, AND the most recent Notice of Assessment covers a full year of these incomes, the household member may provide the most recent Notice of Assessment. Examples of fixed income include one or more of:
  - Old Age Security
  - Guaranteed Income Supplement
  - Canada Pension Plan
  - Canada Pension Plan for the Disabled
  - Worker's Safety and Insurance Board long term compensation
  - Private pensions
  - Private long term disability

b. What is the definition of a child of the household for RGI calculation purposes?

- ✓ Must be a child of a member of the household, AND
- ✓ Always lived with the household except for short periods while in full-time attendance at a recognized educational institution, AND
- ✓ Does not have a spouse, AND
- ✓ Is not the parent of a child living in the same household

c. What if I am a child of the household but not a full-time student?

- ✓ Full-time student means taking at least 60% of a full course load or 40% of a full course load for a student with a permanent disability, at a recognized post-secondary educational institution (for example, a college, university, or vocational school) and the student has not been out of secondary school for more than five years at the start of his or her study program
- ✓ The recognized educational institution, other than a university, must be within the Province of Ontario
- ✓ If you do not meet the child of household AND full-time student requirements as stated above, you must report all your income and assets. Refer to question f. below if you do not have any income

d. Why do I have to submit my bank statements?

- ✓ Your bank account is considered an asset. To qualify for an RGI subsidy you must submit all income and assets documents

e. Do I qualify for any deductions if I am paying child or spousal support?

- ✓ Yes, but you must provide a copy of the support agreement or court order and copies of cancelled cheques (showing support paid)

f. What if I do not have any income?

- ✓ You must provide your most recent Notice of Assessment from the Canada Revenue Agency, OR
- ✓ You must obtain a sworn affidavit to state that you have not had any income in the past year up to present, and also that currently you do not have any source of income
